MODERN MATES While the changing needs of a family with two teenage sons pushed for more room, the pure form and mature landscape of the existing 1950s beachfront home, designed by Ernest Born, demanded a careful hand. The simple addition—essentially three stacked rooms nestled within the garden—is refined in craft and composition. A thoughtfully curated mix of mid-century and contemporary furnishings, art, and objects relate to the vintage of the original building and its new counterpart.

JUROR COMMENT

"An architectural jewel that doesn't deny its role as a home."
